CALL TO WORSHIP

Leader: Having been out in the world as individuals, we return this morning as one people, uniting with our common Source.

People: We seek you both in our individual striving and in our coming together for worship and mutual support.

Leader: There are energies which seem to pull us apart, and there are also sacred rhythms which bind us to you and each other.

People: Restore us in worship today, and ready us for the service which is asked of us in the week to come.

HYMN #265 “Jesus Shall Reign Where’er the Sun”Duke Street

PRAYER OF CONFESSION (in unison)

God, all week we have been in a place of judgment about ourselves, others, and the world. We have tried our best to fix what is wrong, in our minds, and still, all is not well. Teach us to let go of our striving, at least as we worship, to find ourselves upheld by your gracious presence, and to see all that is blessed and holy about ourselves, others, and the world which you have made. Then, as we return to our lives, may our work and our service become more tender, forgiving, and loving, filling all we do with the fragrance of your presence. Amen.

As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be,
